

EXPLAIN STAND IN SMOOT CASE

Majority Report Of Senate Committee On Privileges Condemning Apostle, Made Public.

SAY HE STANDS OPPOSED TO LAW

That He Is An Inseparable Part Of Body Of Men Convinced At Its Violation--Minority Finds Him Blameless.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, D. C., June 11.—The reasons for the action of the senate committee on privileges and elections in declaring, by a majority vote, that Reed Smoot is not entitled to a seat in the senate as senator from Utah are stated in a report submitted to the senate today by Chairman Burrows and signed by Senators Burrows, Doolittle, Dubois, Pettus, Bailey, Overman and Frazier, to be as follows:

"That Mr. Smoot is one of a self-perpetuating body of men, known as the first presidency and twelve apostles of the church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, commonly known as the Mormon church; that these men claim divine authority to control the members of said church in all things, temporal as well as spiritual; that this authority is, and has been for several years past, so exercised by the said first presidency and twelve apostles as to encourage the practice of polygamy and polygamous cohabitation in the state of Utah and elsewhere, contrary to the constitution and laws of the state of Utah and the law of the land; that the said first presidency and twelve apostles do now control, and for a long time past have controlled, the political affairs of the state of Utah, and have thus brought about in said state a union of church and state, contrary to the constitution of said state of Utah and contrary to the constitution of the United States, and the said Reed Smoot comes here, not as the accredited representative of the state of Utah, in the senate of the United States, but as the chief hierarchy which controls the church and has usurped the functions of the state in said state of Utah."

The report says it is shown beyond reasonable doubt that the authority of the first presidency and twelve apostles is so exercised over the members of the Mormon church as to inculcate a belief in the divine origin of polygamy and polygamous cohabitation. Quotations from the Book of Mormon and other publications are cited to prove the alleged Mormon belief that the revelation on the subject of polygamy is of higher authority than the manifesto forbidding the practice. "It is very evident," the report says, "that if polygamy were discontinued by the leaders of that church it would very soon be a thing of the past among the members of that church. On the contrary, it appears that since the admission of Utah into the union as a state the authorities of the Mormon church have continued and encouraged the commission of the crime of polygamy instead of preventing it, as they could easily have done."

A sufficient number of specific instances of the taking of plural wives among officials of the Mormon church since the manifesto of 1890 have been shown by the testimony, says the majority, "to demonstrate that the leaders, the first presidency and twelve apostles, connive at the practice of taking plural wives, and have done so ever since the manifesto was issued which purported to put an end to the practice."

"It has been shown by the testimony, so clearly as to leave no doubt of the fact, that as late as 1896 one, Lillian Hamlin became the plural wife of Abraham H. Cannon, who was then an apostle of the Mormon church. George Teasdale, another apostle of the Mormon church, contracted a plural marriage with Marion Scholes since the manifesto of 1890. It is also in evidence that Walter Steed, a prominent Mormon, contracted a plural marriage after the manifesto of 1890. Charles E. Merrill, a bishop of the Mormon church, took a plural wife in 1891, more than a year after the issuing of the manifesto, the ceremony being performed by his father, who was then and until the time of his death, an apostle in the Mormon church. It is also shown that John W. Taylor, another apostle of the Mormon church, has been married to two plural wives since the issuing of the so-called manifesto. Mathias F. Cowley, another of the twelve apostles, also has taken one or more plural wives since the manifesto."

It is asserted that Abraham H. Cannon and Lillian Hamlin were married on the high seas, off Los Angeles, Calif., by Joseph F. Smith, now president of the Mormon church. Of the marriage of apostles, the report says: "While the proof that apostles Taylor and Cowley have married plural wives since the manifesto may not be so free from all possible doubt as is the proof in the case of Abraham Cannon, the fact that the proofs presented to the committee showing such marriages by Taylor and Cannon stand wholly uncontroverted, and the further fact that apostles Taylor and Cowley, instead of appearing before the committee and denying the allegation, evade service of process issued by the committee for their appearance, and refuse to appear after being requested to do so, warrant the conclusion that the allegation is true and that said Taylor and Cowley have taken plural wives since the manifesto."

Taylor and Cowley have recently been dropped from the list of apostles and this action by the church is offered as amounting to an admission by the first presidency and twelve apostles that apostles Taylor and Cowley have each taken one or more plural wives since the manifesto.

Several of these instances of plural marriages by other church members are cited and the report adds: "It is morally impossible that all these violations of the laws of the state of Utah by contracting plural marriages could have been committed without the knowledge of the first presidency and the twelve apostles of the Mormon church. Furthermore it is shown by the testimony of one of the twelve apostles and of other witnesses that under the established law of the church no person could secure a plural wife except by consent of the president of the church."

One intensely interesting chapter of the report is devoted to the charge that testimony was suppressed by Mormon leaders, through the sending out of the country of apostles and other officials who were charged with taking plural wives since the manifesto. The report says:

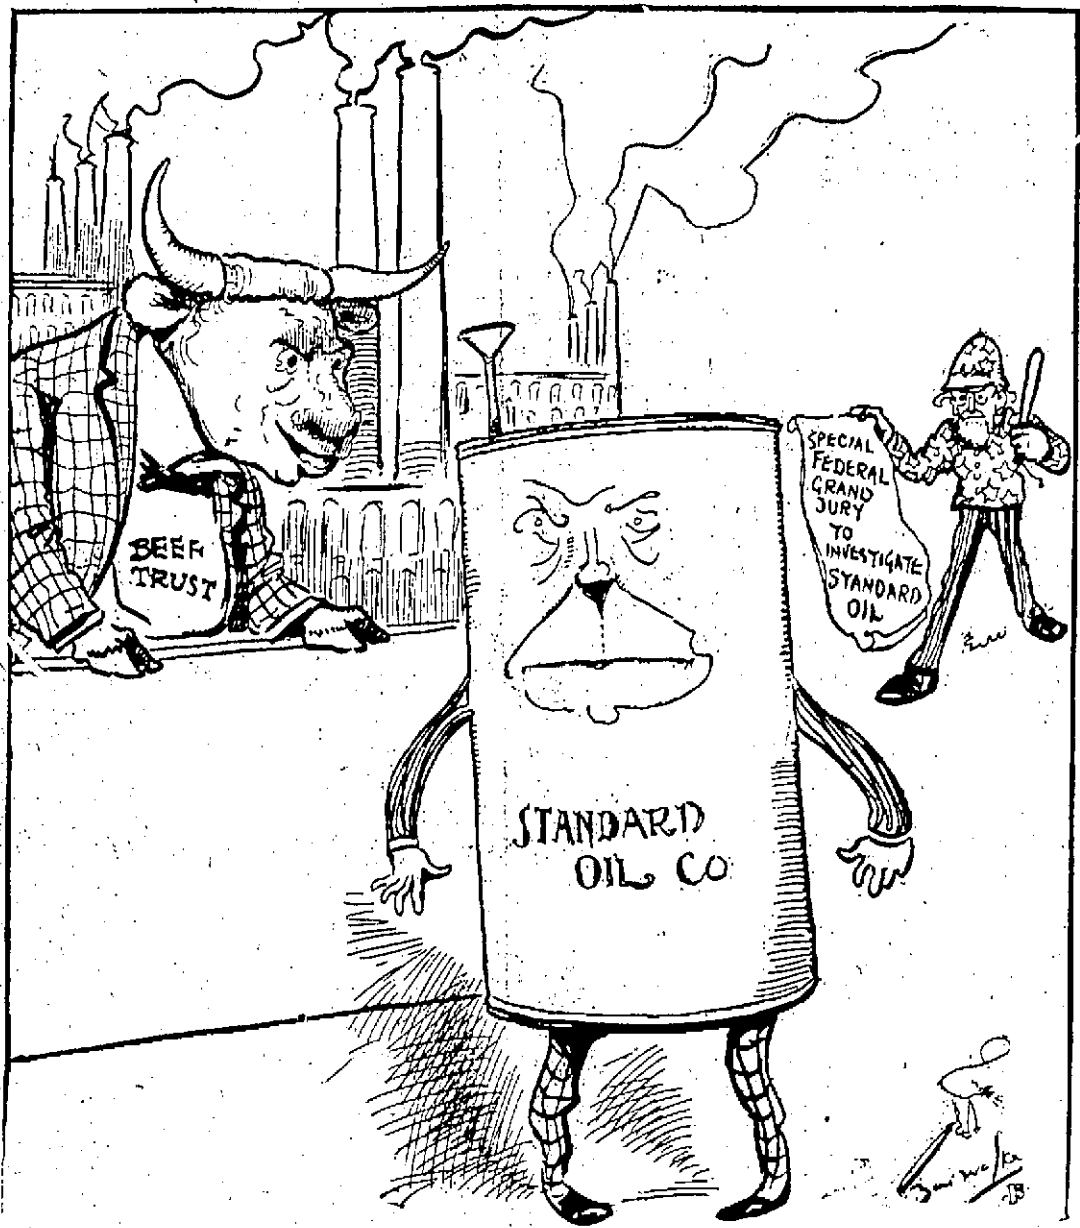

"It would be nothing short of self-stultification for one to believe that all these most important witnesses chanced to leave the United States at about the same time and without reference to the investigation. All the facts and circumstances surrounding the transaction point to the conclusion that everyone of the witnesses named left the country at the instance of the rulers of the Mormon church and to avoid testifying before the committee. It is furthermore a fact which cannot be questioned that every one of the witnesses is under the direction and control of the first presidency and twelve apostles of the Mormon church. Had those of them seen fit to direct the witnesses named to return to the United States and give their testimony before the committee they would have been obliged to do so. The reason why the said witnesses left the country and have refused to come before the committee is easy to understand, in view of the testimony showing the contracting of plural marriages by prominent officials of the Mormon church within the past few years."

"Aside from this it was shown by the testimony, and in such a way that the fact could not possibly be controverted, that a majority of those who give the law to the Mormon church are now, and have been for years, living in open, notorious and shameless polygamous cohabitation. The list of those who are thus guilty of violating the laws of the state and rules of public decency is headed by Joseph F. Smith, the first presidency, prophet, seer, and revelator of the Mormon church."

"The list also includes George Teasdale, an apostle; John W. Taylor, an apostle; John Henry Smith, an apostle; Marriner W. Merrill, an apostle; Heber J. Grant, an apostle; M. F. Cowley, an apostle; Charles W. Penrose, an apostle; and Francis M. Lyman, who is not only an apostle, but the probable successor of Joseph F. Smith, as president of the church; Brigham H. Roberts, one of the presidents of seventies and a leading official of the church; J. M. Tanner, superintendent of the church schools; Andrew Jensen, assistant historian of the church; Thomas H. Merrill, a bishop of the church; Alma Merrill, one of the presidency of a church state; Angus M. Cannon, a patriarch of the Mormons; a man named Greenwald, who is at the head of a church school; George Reynolds, one of the first seven presidents of seventies and first assistant superintendent of Sunday schools of the world; Geo. Brimhall, president of Brigham Young university; and Joseph Hickman, teacher in Brigham Young university. All the officials named were appointed, either directly or indirectly, by the first presidency and twelve apostles; and in the case of J. M. Tanner, his appointment to his present office was made after he had been compelled to resign his position as president of the agricultural college because of the fact that he was a polygamist."

"These facts abundantly justify the assertion made in the protest that the supreme authorities in the church, of whom Senator-elect Reed Smoot is one, to-wit, the first presidency of twelve apostles, not only connive at violation of, but protect and honor the violators of the laws of the state of Utah."

THE COMMENCEMENT AT NAVAL ACADEMY

Annual Closing Exercises At Annapolis Opened With Arrival Of Board Of Visitors.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Annapolis, Md., June 11.—The annual closing exercises of the naval academy began today with the arrival of the board of visitors. In the ordinary routine this would have been graduation week at the academy, but by special order the class of 1906 was graduated in February, some three months ahead of the usual time. With the exception of the graduation of the cadets the exercises this week will take place according to the customary program. The board of visitors appointed by the president this year is as follows: Brig. Gen. C. A. Woodruff, of San Francisco; Strathairn Hendrie, of Detroit; Alford M. Scales, of North Carolina; F. J. Sprague, of New York City; Ex-Governor Murphy, of New Jersey; Chas. F. Brooks, of Connecticut; and Geo. P. Blow, of Illinois. The senate is represented by Senators Dick of Ohio and Patterson of Colorado, and the house of representatives by Representative Gregg of Texas, Roberts of Massachusetts and Lilley of Connecticut.

COADJUTOR BISHOP CONSECRATED TODAY

Monsignor John B. Morris Made Vice Head Of Little Rock Diocese—Was Vicar General.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Nashville, Tenn., June 11.—The consecration of Monsignor John B. Morris of this city as coadjutor bishop of the Roman Catholic diocese of Little Rock took place here today. The new bishop takes the title of Bishop of Acomania, a titular province in Asia Minor, which title will be dropped when he succeeds to the bishopric of Little Rock on the death or incapacity of the present bishop, Rt. Rev. Edward Fitzgerald. The consecration was conducted with all the pomp and ceremony prescribed by the church ritual. Many priests and prelates of distinction thronged St. Mary's church, where the ceremony took place. Bishop Morris was born at Hendersonville, Tenn., June 23, 1860, and was ordained a priest June 11, 1882, after being graduated from the American college there. For several years past he has served as vicar general of the diocese of Nashville.

Catholic Missionaries.
Washington, D. C., June 11.—The annual conference of the Catholic Missionary Union opened today at the Apostolic Mission house, Brookland. Bishop P. J. Donahue of Wheeling, W. Va., delivered the opening address. The sessions are to continue three days. Among those taking part are J. S. Leahy of Missouri, representing the Knights of Columbus; Rev. Osmond Welsch, O. S. B. of Alabama; James A. Walsh of Boston, and William F. Downey, founder of the League of Good Samaritans.

Princeton Class Day.
Princeton, N. J., June 11.—Today was class day at Princeton, and everywhere were to be seen groups of students in cap and gown. The exercises of the day, in accordance with the time-honored custom, included the ivy-planting and joy-creation in front of Nassau hall, the canon exercises and sophomore reception. Tomorrow will be Alumni day.

SPECTACULAR ONLY WORD CAN DESCRIBE RECENT NUPTIALS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, June 11.—Of the several recent weddings in the circle of wealth and society of prominence in New York and vicinity that of Miss Cynthia Roche, daughter of Mrs. Burke Roche, and Mr. Arthur Scott Burden, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Burden, which took place today in Grace church, was without doubt the most spectacular. Society turned out in full force for the wedding. The interior of the church was profusely decorated with flowers and plants, while electric lights shone through the foliage like so many stars. The bride wore a handsome costume of white satin, the train being three yards long. Her veil was fastened with diamond brooches and in her hands she carried a bouquet of rare orchids. The bridesmaids were Miss Nora Iselin, Miss Theresa Iselin, Miss Sadie Jones, Miss Evelyn Parsons, Miss Natica Rives, and Miss Mollie Moran. Mr. Burden's attendants included his brother, William P. Burden, and the Messrs. Roche, brothers of the bride. At the conclusion of the church ceremony the wedding party and guests adjourned to Sherry's where an elaborate breakfast and reception were given. Mr. and Mrs. Burden will sail at an early date to spend their honeymoon in Europe.

The bride of today is the only daughter of Mrs. Burke Roche and granddaughter of Frank W. Roche, the millionaire horseman. Mrs. Burke Roche was one of the most celebrated beauties in society at Newport, and she still is a very handsome young matron. She was divorced from her husband a few years ago. He is the brother and heir apparent to Lord Fermoy of Rock Barton, Limerick. Some time ago Miss Cynthia Roche created comment by renouncing allegiance to King Edward and taking out citizenship papers in New York. She was born in England and by virtue of the title of her father she was "privileged" to the use of the title "Honorable" before her name. She is exceedingly fond of sports, plays tennis well and drives a four-in-hand skillfully. She has often appeared in the tumbler ring driving her mother's valuable show horses. The bridegroom belongs to the well known Burden family, which originally came from Troy, but has been residents of this city and prominent in its society for over half a century. Mr. Burden's brother married Miss Sloane, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Sloane, and he is consequently connected by marriage with the Vanderbilts and other prominent families.

CONVENTION OF THE RED CROSS SOCIETY

Three Recent Wars Will Result Of Complete Overhauling Of The Constitution.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Geneva, June 11.—The International Red Cross convention assembled in Geneva today with an attendance of delegates from all the powers signatory to the Geneva convention of 1864. The United States is officially represented by a delegation comprising Gen. George B. Davis, advocate general of the army; Col. William C. Sangor of New York; Gen. R. M. O'Reilly, surgeon general of the army, and Admiral C. S. Sperry, U. S. N., president of the Naval War college. The present convention is expected to be one of the most important in the history of the Red Cross organization. The original Red Cross convention, framed more than forty years ago, is expected to receive a thorough overhauling, and will be modernized in the light of the developments in three recent wars, the Spanish-American, the Boer-British, and the Russo-Japanese conflicts. Most important of the matters to receive attention is the status of ambulance corps and of field hospitals.

DRUMMERS HOLDING NATIONAL MEETING

Annual Meeting Of Travelers' Protective Association Is On At Buffalo, N. Y.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Buffalo, N. Y., June 11.—The annual national convention of the Travelers' Protective Association of America opened in Convention hall today with an attendance of hundreds of delegates representing every section of the country. The initial session was opened with prayer by the national chaplain, Rev. Homer T. Wilson of Fort Worth, Texas. Mayor Adams made the welcoming address, which was responded to by the national president, W. R. Johnson, of Knoxville, Tenn. Other speakers on the program of the forenoon session were George W. Smith of St. Louis, Mo.; Horace C. Starr of Richmond, Ind.; and W. A. Ryan of Terre Haute, Ind. The afternoon session was short, and at its conclusion the delegates were given a carriage ride through the city. The reports of the several officers show that the association continues to grow at a gratifying rate. It has increased its membership three-fold in the past decade. There are now one hundred and eighty branches in the United States, with an aggregate membership of 30,000. It is primarily a commercial travelers' organization, but includes in its membership a large number of employees of commercial travelers among wholesale dealers and manufacturers, and this combination gives it a most powerful influence. It has been instrumental in securing many concessions from the railroads in the way of interchangeable mileage, reduced rates and better conditions in regard to baggage, etc. Its benefit insurance department is reported on a strong basis. The convention will be in session until Friday and a number of important matters relating to the affairs of the association will be brought up for consideration and action. San Antonio, which entertained the national association in 1895, is an applicant for the convention next year.

"TIS TOO SUDDEN" SAID W. J. BRYAN

When Told In Berlin, Germany, Today Of Action Of Recent State Conventions.

LOCAL DEMOCRATS ARE IN LINE

Most Of Them Make Frank Declarations In His Favor And Say He Will Be Indorsed At Convention Here June 25.

Within the past forty-eight hours the way of sentiment which seems destined to lift William Jennings Bryan to the democratic nomination for the presidency has steadily increased in volume. Champ Clark of Missouri, Ollie James of Kentucky, William Sulzer of New York and others are behind a movement to have a committee of democratic congressmen go to New York and join with other party leaders in welcoming the Nebraskan home.

Hearst Vituperates Leaders

The only loud murmur heard comes from William Randolph Hearst. While in any other part of these islands, declaring his sincere friendship for Bryan and his approval of every honest endorsement of him, he states that he would never welcome into the company of loyal friends such men as George McClellan, whom he calls "an election thief," and the "Captain Kidds of industry" such as Belmont, Morgan, and David Francis, who "were last mustered under the stained and draggled banner of Cleveland and the corporations." Hearst's plan to force the Nebraskan to choose his company and repudiate the gold democrat leaders is believed to be prompted by his own ambition to secure the nomination.

Wisconsin In The Line

That the Wisconsin democratic state convention which convenes in Milwaukee June 27 will indorse Bryan seems a foregone conclusion. The trend of sentiment is shown by the conversions of former gold democrats such as former Senator Vilas and E. C. Wall, James L. O'Connor, former attorney general and one of the leaders of the party says that he will be indorsed without a dissenting voice.

Feeling In Rock County

The Rock county democratic convention which is to name delegates to the state convention, is to be held at the court house in Janesville on June 25. When asked whether or not Bryan would be indorsed here, Former County Chairman P. J. Mouat said: "I think so. The trend of sentiment addressed to Richard Valentine, in favor of such an indorsement." County Chairman J. J. Cunningham, in answer to the same question, said: "It would seem that way now. If the delegates are not actually instructed, a resolution of indorsement will in all probability be passed." George Sutherland was asked if he was to be numbered among the Bryan supporters. "I wouldn't want to say just now. Yes, I presume the convention will indorse him. But I am not ready to say that I'll support him—at this time, at least."

"Are you for Bryan?" was the question addressed to Richard Valentine. "You bet I am," was his reply. "I voted for him last time, though I never believed in his free silver doctrine. But I was not willing to bolt the ticket on that account. A. M. (referring to his brother, A. M. Valentine) voted against him, but I believe he is with him this time."

Isaac F. Connors said: "I'm for Bryan first, last, and all the time. It's a choice between him and Hearst. I'd prefer him to Hearst 100 to 1." An effort was made to interview a number of other prominent local democrats, but they either could not be seen or were unwilling to express themselves. The statements secured, however, seem to clearly indicate the probable attitude and action of the coming county convention.

Interviewed in Berlin

The following dispatch was received by Associated Press from Berlin, Germany, this morning: "Berlin, June 11.—This is too sudden," said William J. Bryan, with a laugh when told today of the adoption by recent state conventions of resolutions favoring his nomination for president of the United States in 1908. As to the possibility of his nomination he had little to say, declaring that it was too early for him to speak on that question.

They come for the purpose of attending the annual convention of the National Editorial association, the sessions of which will begin tomorrow and continue four days. Reception committees met arriving delegates at the union station today and aided in comfortably settling them. An elaborate program of entertainment has been prepared for the four days of the convention. After the close of the gathering the association will leave Indianapolis for an eighteen days' trip through Indiana and then through the great lakes. It is estimated that more than 10,000 members of the association will have arrived here by tomorrow morning.

THE STORY OF CLASSIFIED TOWN

CHAPTER IV.

This is the housewife of Classified Town. Whose face seemed to wear a continual frown. Domestic troubles seemed to bother her so. That her life was filled with worry and woe.

Domestics came, and domestics went. It seemed by the evil one they were sent. Maids broomed dishes and cooks burned stews. Housemen were lazy, and some drank booze.

Her health was failing, her husband was sad. Till one day she tried a Gazette want ad. All day the applicants came to her door: Cooks, maids and butlers, more than a score.

She got what she wanted, no wait no delay: That's why she's smiling serenely today.

...FORTY YEARS AGO...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Monday, June 11, 1866.—Forty years ago last night the weather changed from quite cool to decidedly warm, and it has finally culminated in unbearable hot weather. As we write a shower is falling, but as yet it seems to have no effect in cooling the atmosphere.

Trial of Capt. Perry.—The trial of Capt. Chas. A. Perry of Elkhorn, for shooting a former member of his company in Barslow's cavalry, something over a year ago, will probably be commenced here tomorrow morning. Among the witnesses subpoenaed here on this case are Col. Calkins, Major Perry, Dr. Lane and others.

A Large Fire Department.—We were waited upon this afternoon by an officer of the law who had got decidedly warm in running around town in search of twelve additional firemen, who inquired of us if we knew twelve men in the city who did not belong to the fire department. He said that pretty much every man he had met thus far claimed to belong to this organization.

Detroit, June 9.—The Tenians in this city are drilling today and the leading men are still holding frequent consultations, but the scare is about over along this border. The river is patrolled however, constantly by armed tugs, and the military force along its banks continues undiminished.

At Navasota, Texas, there was recently a hail storm of uncommon severity. The hail stones averaged a half pound in weight, and many were were picked up the size of a man's two fists. The roofings of houses were broken through, and the growing crop of cotton entirely destroyed.

CASSATT SELLS HIS COAL STOCK

DISPOSED OF HIS HOLDINGS
LAST DECEMBER.

HAD PAID PAR FOR SHARES

Gives Details of Outside Industries in Which He Has Invested His Money at Various Times.

Philadelphia, June 11.—The special investigating committee appointed by the board of directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, and acting for all lines of the Pennsylvania system, Sunday made public the answers of President Cassatt to the questions propounded by the committee in one of its circulars sent to all officers and thousands of employees of the various lines. Mr. Cassatt takes up the questions seriatim and in reply to the first query as to whether he has any interest in any coal company or other enterprise located on the company's lines since January 1, 1900, says:

"I do not at present own any stock in any coal company whose mines are located on or whose coal is shipped over the lines of the Pennsylvania railroad system.

"Until the 31st of December last I owned 160 of the 4,000 shares of the Millwood Coal and Coke company (par $50); a stock which I subscribed for when the company was formed, about the year 1872, and paid for at the subscription price, which to the best of my recollection, was par. There was no market for this stock, as it only paid dividends at irregular intervals, but last fall an offer was made for all the stock by the owners of the adjoining land and my stock was sold with the rest.

Tells of His Holdings.

"I own 332 of the 35,000 shares of the common stock of the Union Switch and Signal company (par $50), which I purchased about 1884 at the then market price, which, as nearly as I can recollect, was $25 per share.

"I own 45 of the 2,500 shares of stock of the United States Metallic Packing company (par $100), which I bought about 1886 at the then market price at which I think was about $50 per share.

"I own 2,236 of the 165,000 shares of the preferred stock of the Pennsylvania Steel company (par $100). This stock I purchased at various times, my first purchase having been made in October, 1901, some months after the acquisition by the Pennsylvania company of a majority of the shares of the capital stock of the Pennsylvania Steel company. My last purchase was made on the ninth of May of this year. The average price paid by me was $97.79.

"I own 2,000 of the 450,000 shares of stock of the Cambria Steel company (par $50), which I purchased at a cost of $34 per share on the second day of May, 1906. Those shares replaced 1,600 shares of other stock of the said company, all of which were bought by me after the Pennsylvania company has acquired a majority of the shares of the Cambria Steel company, but which I had subsequently sold.

Mr. Cassatt said he had not directly performed any service in connection with the receipt, transportation or delivery of any freight shipped by or consigned to any of the companies above named.

Did Not Allot Cars.

"In reply to another question he said he had not performed any duties in connection with the distribution of or allotment of cars or the furnishing of sidings, equipment, motive power, dockage or other accommodations for any of the companies named, unless the purchase of locomotives and cars for the general business of the Pennsylvania Railroad company and the furnishing of sidings, under the authorization of the board of directors may be held to come within the scope of the question asked.

Cow Causes Boy's Death.

Calumet, Mich., June 11.—Dragged nearly a mile over rocks and stumps and completely dismembered was the horrible fate of Charles Benson, 12 years old, of Allouez. He was leading a cow home from pasture with a rope tied around his waist, when the animal bolted.

Will Not Fight Duels.

Vienna, June 11.—The 151 duels between Richard Zombory, a well-known Hungarian sportsman residing at Budapest, and officials connected with the Hungarian land and mortgage bank, will not take place, the matter having been settled by an apology by Zombory.

Benign Earthquake.

A New England newspaper of 1797 announced that "a considerable town in this province has been so awaked by the awful providence in the earthquake that the women have generally laid aside their hoop petticoats."

The lid is not off the state house at Madison, so the awful stench of disclosures is kept covered until a change of administration comes to wipe out the stains on the good name of the state.

San Francisco is now busy rebuilding what the fire and earthquake destroyed. It will only be a few years until another national calamity happens and San Francisco will be showing its millions into the stricken community.

There is not much to say regarding legislative politics just yet although it is expected the republican nominees for the legislature will be Baker, Norcross and Hanson again. They have proved their worth and deserve re-nomination and re-election.

Bryan and Bryanism again appear on the horizon as a menace to the peace and prosperity of the country. State after state is falling in line for the "cross of gold" man, showing that fanaticism is not yet all obliterated from the minds of the American people.

Big hats, fishing poles, and bait jugs, are on tap these first summer days. Especially the bait portion of stories of farmers who object to promiscuous running of automobiles through country roads is to be believed. Something worse than bird shot is threatened if the performance of a week ago Thursday is repeated, by angry farmers along the Evansville turnpike.

WHY PRICES WENT UP.

"We went over to the 'parlor' across the way," says Judge, "and called for a 'brick' of mix, ed, and put down the price we had paid always before. The young lady chirped, 'Five cents more, please.' We asked why and wherefore. 'Ice has gone up,' she said. Ah, yes, so ice up from $3 to $5 a ton, ice-cream from thirty-five to forty cents a quart. Exactly. This led us to investigate. 'We found the following facts—approximately, allowing something, of course, to a deep inward activity of feeling: Our beef went up because of increased refrigeration cost. A bunch of radishes cost two cents more. Oranges jumped, and all kinds of fruits. But we did not see just why kindling wood went up twenty-five cents a barrel. Of course, it was easy after we found out—it cost more to supply the kindling splitter with ice water. Then bricks went up forty cents a thousand. The owner of the brickyard ran the ice plant, and the rise in bricks was a purely sympathetic movement—like the inflammation of the eye because the other has got a clinder in it."

"Then we discovered that a corner lot we wanted had gone up $100. This stumped us until we learned the intimate connection between this corner lot and ice. The lot owner, it seems, had got shut up for three hours in a refrigerator, and contact with ice had imbued him with the idea that everything was going up. "But the most singular effect of the ice boom came out as follows: We asked for an increase of salary and got the frosty face, the glacial glance, and the icy eye all in a moment. Then we realized that ice was up and it was costing more to congeal employing interiors, leaving just so much less for the interiors of the submerged classes."

THE MARGIN FOR GRAFT.

It is sad to confess, says the Wall Street Journal, that nine people out of ten who talk about the "muck raker" give the clearest possible indication of never having read the Pilgrim's Progress. Some of them seem to have read the first part of it, but the journey of Christians from this world to a better with her children is like most other classics, more talked about than read. Those who have read the book will remember that the "man with the muck rake" personified the accumulator of wealth, seeking trivial material gains at the expense of his everlasting future. He certainly did not represent anything corresponding to the exposure of the evils of wealth, even if that exposure were made for an ignoble end.

The greed of gain is not a vice of those we have incorrectly labeled muck rakers. The sale of "literary garbage" to a magazine is after all not nearly so profitable as certain other utilizations of by-products. The trouble with the real "man with the muck rake" is that he holds money so close to his eye that he destroys his mental focus. He fails to see it in its true relation to the rest of the social scheme. In the same way the well meaning citizen who loses his head over graft destroys his sense of proportion. He regards it so much to the exclusion of everything else that he can see nothing else.

The rogue will always be better advertised than the honest man. Publicity is part of his punishment. If we could make an attractive newspaper item out of "Remarkable Case of Self-Denial at Hoboken" or "Poor Young Man Supports His Mother at Flatbush" or "Delightful Instance of Family Affection at Yonkers" the good would have their fair share of advertising. The real fact is that virtue is the rule and vice the exception. Good husbands and fathers, creditable sons, industrious daughters, are within the experience of everybody. One's visiting list is made up of suns. People like this never "get into the papers," but it is perhaps time to remember that they are in a majority so enormous that the others are lost.

Graft, then, is conspicuous because it is the exception. It represents waste, but the leakage in that way is by no means so formidable as it sounds. Taking the Tweed ring as a typical instance of stealing in a position of trust, would all the illicit profit on the improvement of the Boulevard or Central Park, or Riverside Park, represent more than a small percentage of the annual taxes paid in consequence of these improvements? The Metropolitan Board of Works in London was contemporary with Tweed and in the Thames embankment engineered a steal at least as big. A great number of small riverside houses were swept away. In their place, the London County Council is collecting taxes from hotels like the Cecil and the Savoy. The stealings of that corrupt body of vestrymen would not represent a percentage worth calculating of the value of the improvement.

Graft is a dreadful thing whose corruption spreads deep and wide. It is not to be apologized for. Any scheme of good government must look it plainly in the face, and to do so must drag it into the open. Its truest friends are those who think the exposure a worse thing than the crime. It is necessary to take the cover off a cesspool to clean it, and the process is an unpleasant one; but its foulest corruption would be working if we merely covered it over and sowed the surface with pretty flowers. The handling of these things is one of the disagreeable necessities of life. Because they have to be handled we may still remember with comfort and thankfulness how much there is which they do not and never can affect.

PRESS COMMENT.

Waukesha in Line. Fond du Lac Commonwealth: Waukesha is the second city in the state to get in line with a Davidson and Connor club.

Stuck. Milwaukee Journal: "Lenroot will stick," says The Oshkosh Northwestern. "Sure, Pete! He's standing right on the fly paper."

Looking Backward. Milwaukee Sentinel: If only Gen. Miles had got after Chicago packers in 1893 instead of poor, old Commissioner Eagan.

Attractive Proposition. Exchange: Judging from the portraits, Mrs. Bertha Kapp is a powerful combination of good looks and $5,000,000 a year.

On Trail of A Shyster. Exchange: Disbarment proceedings against Abe Hummel, New York's criminal protecting shyster, have begun. "Better late than never."

Dog Meat Not So Bad. Milwaukee Journal: Good, healthy dog, bark and all, wouldn't be so bad in sausage after all. We know now of so many worse things. Come, Carlo!

Has Escaped Thus Far. Milwaukee Sentinel: Up to date, the man of the El Paso Herald who wrote a poem entitled, "Everybody lies, but Roosevelt," has not been put behind bars.

Now We'll All Know. Geo. Grassie in Evening Wisconsin: Gil is back again—Gil Vandercok—from Washington—and in a few days now we will all know where we are at again. Glad to see you, Gil.

Sausage Scylla and Charybdis. Superior Telegram: Well, if you don't like American sausage you can try the imported kind. The sausage manufacturers of Germany ground up 37,000 horses last year.

"De Broffids in De Bubs." Menasha Record: As there is to be no more freight rebate on beer shipments, it is possible that in the future "De broffids of de bismes vill pe in de bubs" more than ever.

He's Ticked To Death. Exchange: It must be gratifying to Mr. Houser that his desire for an investigation is to be met with a trial before a criminal court on the charge of attempted bribery.

Supported In His Claim. Exchange: Gaylord, the social democratic candidate for governor, claims La Follette as a socialist. There are a whole lot of republicans in Washington who will endorse the claim.

"Cost" Not Real Drawback. Milwaukee News: It is not impossible that before the Houser case is brought to an end, the district attorney of Dane county may be able to realize that there are other reasons than its "expense" that make the idea of a grand jury so odious at Madison.

Thrillers Tabooed in Deutschland. Oshkosh Northwestern: The Americanization of the world is hitting in all sorts of spots in unexpected ways. Berlin police authorities have issued an order forbidding the sale of translations of the "Old Sleuth" and "Jack Harkaway" style of slush as demoralizing to manners and morals of the children.

No Opening Visible. Fond du Lac Commonwealth: The packers, in their wrath, are said to be planning "President Roosevelt's political destruction." As the president has declared that he is not a candidate to succeed himself, and has not announced any political ambition anyhow, it is difficult to understand just where the packers expect to find a flaw in his political armor.

What Lies Back Of Fight. Geo. Grassie in Evening Wisconsin: They do tell me that that Marinette postoffice deal is not all as it has appeared on the surface—that a whole lot of stalwarts are for Patrick and a lot of halfbreeds for O'Connell, and that the factional lines are not closely drawn. Be that as it may, it doesn't interest the rest of the state unless your Uncle Ike gets his dander up again and enlists with La Follette horse, foot and dragoons as in days of yore.

Bryan in 1908. Fond du Lac Bulletin: The state of Missouri has given the Bryan boom for 1908 a hunch at a time when it will count for the most. Mr. Bryan is now abroad and plans to return in August, at which time the citizens of Lincoln propose to give him a non-partisan reception, and this will probably be followed by receptions elsewhere, of a political character. That Bryan will be the leading factor in the democratic campaign, two years hence, has been evident for some time. The part he played in the last convention, and in the subsequent campaign, has placed him in a peculiarly strong position, so far as his party organization is concerned. He may not be nominated for president, but by the democrats, in 1908, but the indications, at present, point to him as the man who will at least guide the destinies of the nominating convention.

The Houser Case To Be Tried. Evening Wisconsin: The offense with which Walter L. Houser, secretary of state, is charged in the warrant sworn out for his arrest is attempted bribery in a highly aggravated form. Until he has been proved guilty he is of course entitled to the presumption of innocence, but the scandalous transaction of which he is accused will be widely and earnestly discussed. He is a member of an administration which has been loud in professions of superior virtue, and deeply intolerant of the practice known as lobbying. Certainly lobbying when conducted by unprincipled men is an activity bristling with evil phases. Yet there are aspects of lobbying which are innocent enough. When any citizen whose interests are touched or threatened by contemplated official action or pending legislation goes to the seat of government to expound the situation as he views it, and to argue in person with officials or legislators for or against the pending action or measure, he is a lobbyist. He may be full of patriotism and without guile. He may be selfish, crafty and corrupt. In either case he is a lobbyist. Some of the best things that have ever occurred at Madison and Washington have been the outcome of influence brought to bear by the lobby.

The administration of which Secretary of State Houser is a member assumed the attitude of setting its face against lobbying and procured the enactment of a law providing that all lobbyists must be registered and must declare their object in approaching the seat of power. The practical reform obviously contemplated in the anti-lobby law would be sadly thwarted if members of the administration, working quietly and unobserved, were to lend themselves to the work of lobbying. Such a practice would introduce a new evil far graver than that which the law for the regulation of lobbying ostensibly aimed to correct.

CARMEN SYLVA'S PHILOSOPHY.

We are all of us the victims of our own mistakes.

Misfortune may nourish pride, but suffering humbles.

Cease to vaunt thyself that thou didst bear thy misfortune. Hadst thou then any choice?

Disappointment is like frost bite. One recovers but slowly, and it always leaves a mark behind.

There is still some life in despair, because it is an act of revolt; but mere passive hopelessness is almost like death.

One can become so accustomed to disappointment that in the end one quite loses the power of looking forward to anything.

A great sorrow raises us so far above the world that it is often hard to step down from this pedestal into commonplace existence.

There are, perhaps, but few of those who feel intensely who have not at least once in their lives contemplated the possibility of suicide.

When the temples of all religions have been abandoned by their worshippers, there will still be the graveyard left as a last place of pilgrimage.

How can we feel grateful to Time for removing us further and further from some irreparable loss? Would it not thereby deprive us of our last best comfort, the right to mourn?

Let us not be hasty to condemn the man who dies by his own hand. We none of us know what the extent of his sufferings may have been, nor can we measure his capacity of endurance.

FIRST CARNEGIE PENSIONS

Two Members of the Ripon College Faculty Aided from Fund.

Ripon, Wis., June 11.—The first educators to be awarded pensions from the $100,000 Carnegie fund are two members of the faculty of Ripon college. They are Dr. E. H. Merrill, former president of the college and for 30 years a member of its faculty, and Prof. C. H. Chandler of the department of mathematics.

Iowa Commercial Travelers. Dubuque, Ia., June 11.—The grand council of Iowa United Commercial Travelers, elected officers as follows: Counselor, C. E. Roper, Fort Dodge; past counselor, H. H. Smith, Des Moines; junior counselor, C. R. Rohde, Waterloo; secretary, C. F. Olstead, Sioux City; treasurer, W. H. Gray, Des Moines.

Ball Skills Player. Muskogee, I. T., June 11.—Claude Camp, aged 21, while "catching" in a baseball game, was struck over the heart by a foul tip. He picked up the ball, threw it to the pitcher, and fell dead.

Pope Attends Beatification. Rome, June 11.—Pope Pius Sunday went to St. Peter's for the beatification of the Venerable Bonaventura of Barcelona. Thousands of persons were admitted to the Basilica on tickets.

Battle With Shovels. Carmi, Ill., June 11.—Using shovels as weapons, a gang of Greek laborers working on the Big Four railroad here fought a bloody battle. One is seriously wounded and may die.

Enlarges Yosemite Park. Washington, June 11.—The senate passed the house resolution, including the Yosemite valley and the Mariposa big tree grove in Yosemite national park.

Tornado Wrecks Oil Derricks. Dewey, I. T., June 11.—A tornado Saturday night demolished several residences and wrecked 200 oil derricks, causing a loss of $50,000.

Find Body in Creek. Mounds, Ill., June 11.—The body of a young man, unidentified, about 21 years of age, was found in a creek near here, with the head crushed and cut.

Naturally. Some people act the fool intentionally while others who have no histrionic ability whatever attain similar results.

A WIZARD AT COOKING

Reminiscences of G. W. Harvey, Washington Epicure.

HAPPY WHEN FIXING UP A DINNER

Oysters, Canvasback Duck and Terrapin His Specialties—His Restaurant in the National Capital, Which He Recently Sold, Famous For Many Years—How He Won in a Contest at Paris.

George Washington Harvey, the famous epicure and restaurant keeper of Washington, who has sold his business and will retire to contemplate at his ease his fifty years of good eating and drinking for both himself and his patrons, is a very short and a very fat man, says a Washington special dispatch to the New York World. He has not been well for a year or two, but he has been around all the time telling his friends what delicacies he found in market and advising them how to get their selections cooked.

Harvey had three specialties. He considered all food except the oyster, the canvasback duck and the terrapin mere raw materials, with which results sometimes most gratifying could be accomplished. Ducks, oysters and terrapin he considered the finest gifts of the Creator to mankind, and he devoted most of his research and knowledge of the culinary art to serving these.

His bill of fare contained almost 200 oyster dishes, many of them unique. If a good dinner were needed and Harvey were asked about it, he would always select oysters—and he had some special beds—terrapin cooked in his own style and a duck. When canvasbacks were not plentiful and good he served others, but the pinnacle of his accomplishment was with a canvasback.

Harvey knew every famous or notable or noticeable American who came to Washington. The reputation of his steamed oysters is universal. Almost every stranger in the city hustled down to his place to get half a peck or a peck of steamed. Harvey invented this method of cooking oysters. His "steamed bar" has been named for years by the same waiters. His sauce is his own invention also.

When people wanted to have a real terrapin for dinner they usually went to Harvey, for he had the genuine eastern shore diamond backs in his cellar. There are plenty of things that pass for terrapin among the uninitiated. There is a Pennsylvania terrapin that can be had by the ton. Harvey knew all the tricks, but when he told you he would give you terrapin you got diamond back, and you paid for it. But that is another story. Harvey had a grip on the diamond back market. He gathered in most of the toothsome turtles that came this way. When the canvasbacks began flying south Harvey got the pick of the market.

He was joyous when fixing up a dinner. He kept his waiters for years. "Billy" has been there more than thirty years and John Scott nearly as long. "Uncle Peter," who died a year or two ago, had been opening oysters at the "raw box" more than forty years. Some of the cooks have been there more than a quarter of a century.

Harvey used to waddle up and down through the dining room. If he saw a man who looked as if he needed some help he would give it. It was a favorite trick of his to go to a customer, look over his food and add a spoonful of sauce or something of the kind himself. He knew what the finishing touch should be. When there was a terrapin feast on he always stood by, saw that the sauce was right and brought out a little of his best wine.

He is very proud of his acquaintance. In his early days he and Thomas Nast, the cartoonist, formed the Canvasback club and gave great feasts. All the great men were his guests.

Harvey went to Paris a few years ago. His fame had preceded him, and he found many Americans there who knew about his skill in making good things to eat. His friends proclaimed that Harvey could make a better salad dressing than any cook France ever saw. The Frenchmen disputed it. In jig time a salad dressing contest was arranged between Harvey and two Parisian epicures, each of whom thought he had mastered all there was to know about salad dressing.

The contest came off in a restaurant. The three competitors called for the ingredients they wished and mixed their salads and then made their dressings. There was a large number of spectators, and the excitement was intense. Just before the mixers passed their salads over to the judges Harvey took a small leather case out of his pocket, picked out a little bottle, uncorked it and let a drop or two of a colorless liquid fall on the salad. Then he put the bottle back in his pocket, handed in his salad and waited for the verdict.

The judges tasted and tried and compared for half an hour. They unanimously decided that Harvey's salad won the prize not because it was intrinsically better than the salads of the Frenchman, but because the mysterious liquid he had put on it from the bottle added a strange, indefinable aroma that made the Harvey salad superior.

The Americans escorted Harvey to his hotel. When they were celebrating there one of them said to Harvey: "George, what was it you put on that salad out of that bottle?"

"Nothing," said Harvey—"nothing at all but plain water out of the pump. I knew these Frenchmen were imaginative, and I thought I'd appeal to them, and I did apparently."

Prize for Aeronaut. The queen of Italy has just offered an international cup to be presented to the first aeronaut who succeeds in crossing the Alps by balloon.

THE GENTLE CYNIC.

No man can be selfish with his happiness.

The wages of sin often come without working.

It takes a lot of luck to push a man up hill.

When some people tell the truth they have to label it.

Some people seem tireless in making other people tired.

It isn't the stingy man who keeps his troubles to himself.

When women grow jealous the devil proceeds to get busy.

If we could only hook our troubles the pawnshops would be full.

The pessimist never hopes for the best, yet grows if he doesn't get it.

We would never suspect how nice some people were if they didn't tell us.

Contentment flies out of the window when ambition stalks in at the door.

Don't cross your bridge till you come to it—and maybe it won't be there.

THERE'S A REASON.

While we are all like sheep in a certain sense, in following each other, yet when it comes to selecting a doctor or a dentist or the spending of our money, we do not act without having a well-defined REASON for our actions.

This is why Dr. Richards has built up such a splendid dental practice. He furnishes a REASON for your selecting him to do your work.

A lady was just in to consult him this morning and she said, "You made my mother's teeth a year ago and she is delighted with them."

"You have worked for a number of my friends, and they all said for me to come to YOU for my dentistry."

So she had well-defined REASONS for her choice of a dentist.

To sum it up:

He gives you splendid work.

He hurts you LESS than any dentist that ever looked in your mouth.

He has a REASON when he comes to hand you your bill.

He goes to the limit to PLEASE you.

Now, in view of such facts does it not strike you that such a workman is just the man whom you wish to look after your teeth?

ON SUMMER DAY MONTH OF MAY

KODAK FIEND FOUND A FEW VICTIMS ALONG CURBSTONES.

THE "LEETLE" BAND POSED

But All the Others Are Presented "As Natural As Life"—Straw-Hat Crime Recorded.

During the warm spell in May—it was the day of the race meet—a man with a camera wandered out in the sunshine and "snapped" a few of Janesville's well known citizens in more or less characteristic poses.

Fred Sheldon was engaged in an animated conversation with Stanley Tallman when his name was called behind his back. He turned quickly just as the shutter closed. Over in front of the Hotel Myers a detachment of the Imperial band was playing.

ing. The musicians insisted on being posed for a picture with "Little George" as leader. Officer John Brown was standing just in front of the beautiful new street sign foisted upon this community by Alderman Fish. His eagle eyes were fixed upon an embryonic disturbance up street. Charles Conrad was hastening up the thoroughfare in his shirt-sleeves when called upon to halt. Bland, accommodating, ever ready to oblige at whatever inconvenience to himself, he did so with a smile. Fred Gleason was caught in front of the Gazette office. It was a harsh thing to convict him, thus, of wearing a straw hat before June 1, but just as like as not that will not bother him a little bit.

NUDE SWIMMER WAS PADDLED BY CHIEF

Punishment to Bathers Who Violated Ordinance Meted Out Yesterday Afternoon.

First punishment of swimmers, who violate the city ordinance compelling bathers to wear suits while dipping within the city limits, was meted out yesterday afternoon by Marshal Applegate. He learned that despite his warning of a few days ago the lower beachhouse "hole," near the upper railroad bridge, was being frequented by undraped boys. He descended on the scene yesterday afternoon when three loads of about fifteen years were having a most exciting time in the water. On his arrival all made for the western shore, while companions who had completed their bath escaped with the clothes of two. The garments of the third the chief confiscated. He hailed a passing boatman and crossed to where the refugees stood, huddled in on land by civilization and with no avenue of escape by water. The boy surrendered and the marshal administered a thrashing like mother used to give, only a little harder. The lad was given his clothes and a lecture and will no doubt fail to forget the experience and remember to warn his "pards."

JANESVILLE HAS A CHANCE FOR OFFICE

Mystic Workers of the World Want a Good Location for Their Permanent Headquarters.

At the biennial meeting of the Mystic Workers of the World, which is to be held in St. Paul in 1908, propositions, in the way of sites for a home office building or money considerations, will be received. Janesville is privileged to make a bid and with what she can offer in mail and express facilities has an excellent chance for getting the plum. The establishing of the permanent headquarters of this order here would mean a new building and the employment of about twenty-five people. At present the temporary headquarters are in Fulton, Ill., where the biennial meeting Wisconsin was granted a second position on the board of directors, where formerly this state was represented by but one person.

NOTHING STARTLING EXPECTED TONIGHT

Common Council May Have Nothing But Routine Work At Regular Session.

It is not probable that anything other than the usual routine business and possibly one or two matters of minor importance will come before the common council at its regular session this evening. City Attorney Maxfield will likely report on the matter involving the laying of a sidewalk on South Bluff street in front of City Treasurer Father's property. Mr. Father, who has title to the land on which the sidewalk would be placed, claims that the city should pay him just compensation for the property, while others contend that the land has been dedicated to the municipality through common use as a path for the past fifteen years.

CALLED TO CASHTON BY GRANDMOTHER'S ILLNESS

Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Justinger Received Word Saturday That Relative Was Dying.

On Saturday Matthew P. Justinger, ticket agent at the St. Paul passenger depot, received a message that his grandmother was dying at Cashton, Wis. He and his wife left immediately for that city, but found the sick woman had rallied. However, news of her demise may be expected at any time, for she is now eighty-one years old. Some time ago, when her illness was not considered immediately dangerous, she told the family that she would live until her eighty-first birthday. The event occurred today. Mr. and Mrs. Justinger returned from Cashton last evening.

NEWSBOYS HAD MUCH SPORT AT IDLEWYLE

Carriers' Association Members Made Trip up River Saturday—Enjoyed Picnic Dinner.

Twenty-six members of the Janesville Newsboys' Association, all Gazette carriers, spent Saturday at Idlewyle park, up the river. The trip was made in the New Idlewyle, the party leaving the dock for the scene of fun at eight in the morning. A ball game between teams captained by Frank Murtagh and Frank Rider was played in the forenoon. The first-named nine won with a score of 16 to 2. While eighteen of the lads were thus engaged the rest amused themselves in the water and on the bowling alleys. Before noon the pangs of hunger were felt and when the dinner, which had been brought by the picnicers in baskets, was spread twenty-six ravenous appetites were satisfied. In the afternoon, besides a game of "work-up" on the baseball diamond and other sports, there was a quarter-mile race. This was won as follows: first, Harry Stone; second, Allan Rich; third, Roy McDonald. The merry-makers returned to the city about quarter of four, in time to deliver Saturday evening's paper. The expenses of the trip were met with money from the Association treasury.

MISS EDNA STOUT IS TO BE WEDDED SOON

Kitchen Shower Held Last Week and Another Function Planned for Thursday Evening.

Miss Edna Stout, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Stout, 206 South High street, is to be married to Burr Robbins of Daraboo on the twentieth of the month. The groom-to-be is a fireman on the North-Western road and is well known here. Miss Stout up till recently was employed at the Arch and Reid & company dry-goods store and on Friday evening a number of the young lady clerks surprised her at her home. After spending the evening, delightfully and enjoying delicate refreshments, the bride-elect was showered with numerous articles for kitchen use. Another pre-nuptial entertainment will be given for Miss Stout Thursday evening when Miss Fay Smith is to be a hostess at her home on Park avenue.

GOLD DEMOCRAT FOR BRYAN

Former Senator Vilas, of Wisconsin, Favors Orator of the Platform for President.

Madison, Wis., June 11.—Former Senator William F. Vilas, who served as postmaster general under Grover Cleveland and has been one of the staunchest gold Democrats in the country, has come out for William Jennings Bryan. In his declaration on the subject he declares that his conversion to more radical views is due to the recent disclosures regarding life insurance scandals, railroad rebates and corruption by the money powers generally. He says he regards Bryan as a safe candidate, as is revealed by his letters during his tour of the world.

CHANCELLOR DAY IS HEARD AGAIN

SEES PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT IN
ROLE OF KING.

PACKINGTOWN NOT SO BAD

Declares Conditions in Slaughter
Houses Do Not Bear Out Printed Stories or People Would Die by Thousands.

Syracuse, N. Y., June 11.—Chancellor Day, in his annual baccalaureate sermon Sunday, reaffirmed his attitude toward large corporations, saying they were the logical result of the great stride that the world is making. He again issued a warning against the assumption of too much power by the president, and in referring to the reports of conditions in Packingtown slaughter houses, said that if one-hundredth part of what was printed was true, people would be dying by tens of thousands.

The sermon in part was as follows: "When senators and representatives," said Chancellor Day, "receive orders from the executive, when appeals to popular passion are made to force them to action to which their sound judgment and honest convictions are opposed, the government by the people and for the people becomes a misnomer and a deception. In that hour we are a monarchy without the name."

"It is to be hoped that we are not so dazed and daft by an office that has grown great with our greatness that it may be permitted to set aside courts, senates and congresses."

Appeal to Prejudice.
"Recently pressure was brought by a message, the purpose of which the senators instantly understood and which evidently was intended to appeal to long prepared prejudices of the people."

"Is this the method of legislation to which this great nation has descended? Is this the new way the best way to make our laws? The people should awaken to the danger that threatens representative government."

"We have fallen into a scandal mongering epoch. The foul harpies of slander have created a condition and all of the civilized world is nauseated at the thought of us. It has cost us tens of millions of money and the respect of mankind. It will and should cost our self-respect. If we do not burn out with the caustic of a hot indignation this sore of slander."

"The scandal monger who drags the people through slaughter houses to exhibit in loathsome forms the food of their tables by exaggerations and Munchausen stories of things that always must be offensive at best, are mistaken agitators and especially dangerous to us as a people at this time."

"A man writes a book or publishes a series of magazine articles and makes frantic efforts to have a condition of frenzy created that will sell his foul-smelling pages to a people delirious with the fever of sensationalism. If what such a scandal monger says were an hundredth part true, the people would be dying by the tens of thousands from the poisons of the mists they eat, or the doctors all are mistaken about the toxic effect of such putrid things."

"But there are hundreds of thousands who never ask a question or apply the simplest analysis to any charge. A scare line in a yellow paper is equivalent to the verdict of a jury and the people upon this verdict pronounce sentence of damnation."

Demand Shocking Things.
"This is the epoch we are in. Nothing is right. Everything is wrong. Everybody is bad except the accusers. Everybody seems to be on the verge of being drawn into the filth and slime of damnation or the deadly freedom of suspicion. Committees are sent out to bring back shocking things, and if they come back without them others are sent with more sensitive olfactories. Those whose judicial temperament unfit them for hysteria are threatened with dismissal or branded as renegades in duty. The people who wait for both sides of the case are tools of trusts."

"How long can a nation endure such a condition of things? They threaten the stability of all forms of business and create universal distrust. Shall we publish to the world that we have no recourses for the correction of evils, but that we must leave such things to magazine writers and the makers of sensational literature and the investigation of smelling committees who are seeking things to condemn, and to special executive messages to be read by all nations, while the protesting voice of the accused for justice is overwhelmed and drowned in the roar of popular frenzy and sentence is pronounced by the exparte verdict of the press?"

"Our hope is in the solid, sober, Christian substratum of intelligent thinking which ever has been and ever will be the security of our institutions and the hope of our land."

against polygamy and polygamous cohabitation."

Another chapter is devoted to the manifesto and the statement of one witness set forth, that "the manifesto is only a trick to beat the devil at his own game."

The majority report characterized as "wholly untenable" the position that because Smoot himself does not practice polygamy, and there is no evidence to show that he has personally and individually encouraged the practice in others, he ought not to be condemned because of the acts of his associates. It is charged "that Smoot is an inseparable part of the governing body of the Mormon church and those who compose that organization from a unit, entirely, and whatever is done by that organization is the act of each and every member thereof, and whatever policy is adopted and pursued by the body which controls the Mormon church."

Mr. Smoot must be held to be responsible for as a member of that body."

The report declares that Smoot knew the polygamous practices of President Smith and other church officials he has sustained by his vote as an apostle, and at no time uttered a word of protest against the conduct of his associates but on the contrary has sustained them by his silence.

The report continues:

"In the judgment of the committee, Mr. Smoot is no more entitled to a seat in the senate than he would be if he were associating in polygamous cohabitation with a plurality of wives."

The report discusses the political domination of the first presidency and twelve apostles of the church, which is described as most injurious to the interests of the state.

"Not only is Mr. Smoot one of those by and through whom the political affairs of Utah are dominated," says the report, "but his election to the senate was, it is believed, the result of such domination. When Mr. Smoot concluded to become a candidate for the senate he was careful to obtain the consent of the first presidency and twelve apostles to his candidacy."

But this so-called "consent" of the rulers of the church was naturally regarded by the priesthood, as being, under the circumstances, equivalent to an endorsement, and made it impossible for anyone else to become an aspirant for the same position with any hope of success."

The final chapter of the report, just preceding the conclusions of the committee quoted at the beginning of this abstract, is devoted to the oath of vengeance, administered to those who go through the ceremony known as "taking the endowments." The committee says it was proven that an oath was administered expressed substantially in this form:

"You and each of you do covenant and promise that you will pray and never cease to pray Almighty God to avenge the blood of the prophets upon this nation, and that you will teach the same to your children and to your children's children unto the third and fourth generation."

"There can be no question," declares the committee, "in regard to the taking of the oath of vengeance by Mr. Smoot. He testified that he went through the ceremony of taking the endowments in the year 1890 and the head of the Mormon church stated in his testimony that the ceremony is now the same that it has always been."

"An obligation of the nature of the one before mentioned would seem to be wholly incompatible with the duty which Mr. Smoot as a member of the United States senate would owe to the nation. It is difficult to conceive how one could discharge the obligation which rests upon every senator to so perform his official duties as to promote the welfare of the people of the United States and at the same time be calling down the vengeance of heaven on this nation because of the killing of the founders of the Mormon church sixty years ago."

The minority report, signed by Foraker, Beveridge, Dillingham, Hopkins and Knox, says Smoot possesses all the qualifications prescribed by the constitution to make him eligible to a seat in the senate; that Smoot's private character is irreproachable; that he is within his rights and privileges under the guaranty of religious freedom given by the constitution of the United States.

As to whether Senator Smoot, by virtue of his official relation to the church as one of its apostles, has any responsibility for the continuation of polygamous cohabitation by members of that church, the minority says:

"It will be found by examination of the testimony that he has never at any time, and particularly he has not since the manifesto of 1890, countenanced or encouraged plural marriages; but that on the contrary he has uniformly upheld the policy of the church, as announced by that proclamation, by actively advocating and exerting his influence to effect a complete discontinuance of such marriages, and that in the few instances established by the testimony where plural marriages and polygamous cohabitation, as a result of them, have occurred since 1890 they have been without any encouragement, countenance or approval whatsoever on his part."

"As to polygamous cohabitation in consequence of plural marriages entered into before the manifesto of 1890, there is no testimony to show that he has ever done more than silently acquiesce in this offense against law. In view of his important and influential position in the church, this acquiescence might be regarded as inexcusable if it were not for the peculiar circumstances attending the commission of this offense."

territory of Utah in 1850, the legislation of 1862, 1882, and 1887, first to restrict and then to prohibit entirely plural marriages and polygamous cohabitation. Then came the Woodruff manifesto of 1890, and the minority says that so far as the testimony discloses there have been few plural marriages since.
